A large, round metal platter is filled with a variety of fried foods. In the center, there are several round, golden-brown fried items, possibly fish balls or dumplings. To the left, there are long, thin fried strips, likely chicken. To the right, there are larger, rectangular fried items, possibly pork belly or another type of meat, coated in a dark, glossy sauce and topped with white sesame seeds. A small metal bowl in the center of the platter contains a thick, light-colored dipping sauce. In the foreground, a glass of beer with a thick head of foam is visible. The background is slightly blurred, showing a table with a white tablecloth and some greenery.
